

Curious About a Career in Film and Media?

If you are 19 to 24 years old, currently unemployed or underemployed, with an interest in filmmaking and no plans to return to school in September, then you may be eligible to be a part of the POV Filmmaking Program this summer.

Over the course of 13 weeks, you will learn the technical and business skills of the industry. As part of a small crew, you will help write, direct and shoot your own movie that will be debuted at a special industry screening.

You will get to meet and learn from a variety of professionals currently working in the industry, from music video directors, to screenwriters to music composers.

The POV program is intense and requires dedication. It starts in June and runs every Saturday throughout the summer. If you are up for the challenge, we welcome your application.

Our program provides students with a travel subsidy and lunches.

For promising students, we offer paid internships in the industry.
